I support Microsoft on the case of AOL Vs. MS. I am not an Microsoft employee, but after seeing the way AOL operates, I support Microsoft. I also develop my own web browser, 404Browser, 404Browser.com. One of the arguments that I heard that AOL used against Microsoft is that they underpriced their web browser (free). On the internet it is a joke if someone charged money for there web browser. AOL is even a bigger monopoly that Microsoft is. AOL's software will not even allow you to run alternative internet applications outside their program.
